Disruptive Forces in Food-Tech Start-up

A meal kit is a subscription service that sends customers food ingredients and recipes for them to prepare their own fresh meals. As of July 2017, according to Time Magazine, the meal kit business was estimated to be USD$2.2 billion globally. (Source:Wikipedia)

This session will cover:

- About the meal kit industry
- The emerging meal kit category in Canada
- What meal kits do for consumers and the environment
- Disruptive changes and competitive responses
- Ian's personal journey from blue chip to food-tech startup

Short Bio of Ian Brooks

Ian Brooks founded HelloFresh Canada in early 2016 as the Canadian operation of the global leader in meal kits, Berlin-based HelloFresh SE. Ian started his career in Calgary as an environmental consultant, and has since lived and worked in Zurich, London, and lately Toronto, as an IT project manager with Scotiabank, a strategic sourcing professional with Johnson & Johnson, and a management consultant with McKinsey & Company. He has an MBA from IMD. He is married with two young boys, and his family happily eats HelloFresh six nights a week.

THE MUNK DEBATE ON POLITICAL CORRECTNESS

FRIDAY MAY 18TH 6 45 PM EDT

Be it resolved, what you call political correctness, I call progress.

Speaking against the resolution will be celebrated English actor, author and film director Stephen Fry. He will be joined by Jordan Peterson, a professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, author and clinical psychologist. The Spectator has called him “one of the most important thinkers to emerge on the world stage for many years.”

Arguing for the resolution will be Georgetown University professor of sociology Michael Eric Dyson. Dyson has written more than a dozen books on race, culture and politics in the United States. He will be joined by Michelle Goldberg, a journalist, New York Times columnist, MSNBC commentator, and bestselling author who writes about identity, culture and politics.

RSVP to Amy at events@UClubToronto.com or by calling 416-597-1336 x228

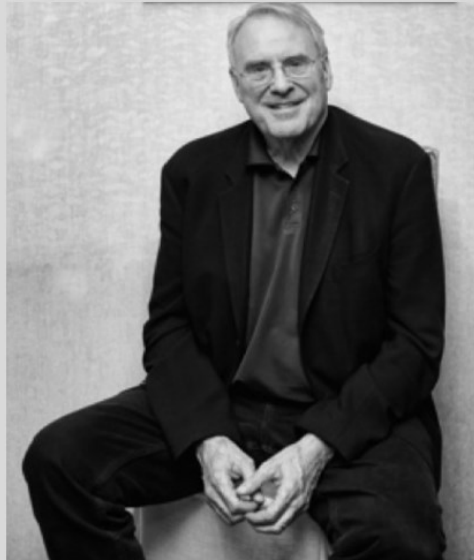

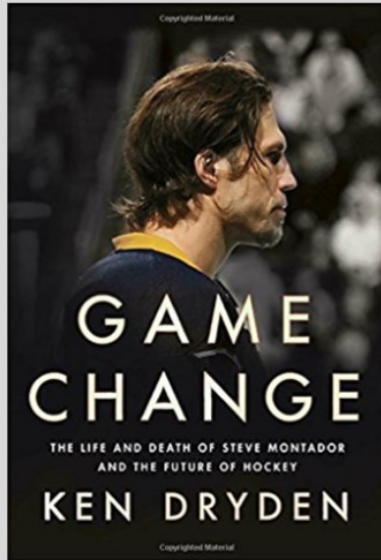

Please mark your calendars for:

UCT's Fall Gala
Saturday, October 27th

We're thrilled that our band will be the Juno nominated Jazz Exiles, with their jazz-funk-fusion sound. Led by drummer Mark Kelso, Rich Brown on electric bass, Luis Deniz on alto saxophone, Joey Martel on electric guitar and Jeremy Ledbetter on keyboards.

Joint Event with UCT and B&R

SPEAKER'S SERIES with KEN DRYDEN

May 23rd, 2018

6:30pm - Reception

7:00pm - Talk

8:00pm - Optional Dinner

$30

Join us for another memorable Speaker Series night as Hockey Hall of Famer, and noted Canadian politician, Ken Dryden, presents his newest work: Game Change.

Mr. Dryden is well-known for his achievements in Canadian politics and also as a goaltender for the Montreal Canadiens, during which time the team won six Stanley Cups! Mr. Dryden is also the author of four best-selling books.

Dryden's Game Change tells the riveting story of one player's life, examines the intersection between science and sport, expertly documents the remarkable evolution of hockey itself, and offers a passionate prescriptive to counter its greatest risk in the future: head injuries.

On June 27, 1918 a Canadian hospital ship, The Llandovery Castle, was torpedoed by a German U-boat. Evacuation was orderly but lifeboats were fired upon, deliberately drowning witnesses to this war crime.

THE LLANDOVERY C×STLE

Librettist: Paul Ciufu
Composer: Stephanie Martin

The dramatic story seems tailor-made for opera, with Ciufu highlighting the very extremes of humanity in a case that outraged Canadians at the time and fuelled intense anger towards Germany.
